CLOUD INFRASTRUCTURE ENGINEER (M/W/D)

Vienna, Klagenfurt, Graz | full time

As a Cloud Infrastructure Engineer, you operate, extend, and automate our entire technology stack – from physical infrastructure and virtualization all the way to Kubernetes and our deployment infrastructure (CI/CD). You'll use modern workflows and automation to focus on the work that actually moves the needle.

#PROFILE

- Ensure platform stability through monitoring as well as proactive troubleshooting and prevention
- Build automation solutions for operating and deploying all platform components
- Proactively monitor the security and currency of the software components in use, and escalate potential risks to the Chief Solution Architect and CTO (Chief Technology Officer) early
- Develop technical concepts for new platform requirements in line with the Chief Solution Architect's architectural decisions
- Document the technical setup of the infrastructure and automation solutions
- Support development teams in using the provided automation solutions and collaborate closely with development teams and the Chief Solution Architect

#WANTED

- Deep Linux expertise and a strong understanding of distributed systems and cloud infrastructure
- Solid experience with Kubernetes (architecture, operations, troubleshooting) and hypervisor technologies (KVM)
- Solid knowledge of networking technologies (routing, switching, VLANs, BGP) and observability tools (e.g., Prometheus, Grafana)
- Experience with infrastructure as code and automation strategies (Terraform, Ansible, ArgoCD) as well as modern GitOps and CI/CD architectures
- Solid grasp of security, high-availability, and resilience requirements
- Strong communication skills, along with a methodical, self-driven, and structured way of working with a strong quality mindset
- Excellent German and English skills, both written and spoken
